Paris Green.

WELLSFORD, March 7.—A suicide of poisoning took place yesterday at the house of George Pine, about seven miles from this place. Mrs. Pine, a Quaker, of the Paris green for the purpose of ending her life.

When discovered it was too late for rescue, and she died in a few hours in great agony.

Mrs. Pine was about twenty years of age, and had only been married about one year. The only cause that can be given for the rash act is ill health.

HATS OF ALL THE AGES.

STRANGE STYLES INVENTED BY FEMININE TASTE ARCHITECTS.

Some kind of hat—no one is free from the temptation of hats and fashion—From Time immemorial women have been dressing their heads in various ways.

Do not think for a moment that the writer of this sketch will furnish a detailed description of the numerous varieties of feminine headgear that have been worn among all nations and in all ages from the prehistoric of the

as with something in their head which will be entirely new, or whether one of the latest of the long list of hats that have been invented, the writer will not say. He will only say that he has seen many of the latest styles, and that he has seen many of the latest styles, and that he has seen many of the latest styles.

LORE OF THE WOODMAN.

WHAT THE WOODMAN IS TO BE EXPECTED TO DO IN THE FOREST OF THE FUTURE.

As the woodman is the most important of all the workers of the forest, it is not surprising that he has been the subject of much speculation and discussion. The woodman is the one who is responsible for the preservation of the forest, and for the production of the timber which is so essential to the progress of the nation.

Daily Intelligencer.

ORLEANSVILLE, MONDAY, MAR. 11.

PROPERLY APPRECIATED.

The Hamilton Spectator of the 4th inst. properly appreciates the conduct of Dr. Carman, in the course he has pursued in reference to his charges against the Government. It says:

"Dr. Carman publicly accused the Dominion Government of paying for masses for the repose of the soul of the late Sir John Thompson, and, withal, published a list of names of the persons who were to receive the benefit of the masses. The Premier, in a courteous letter to Dr. Carman, assured him that he had no objection to the publication of the list of names, and that his accusation was groundless. For a week or more Dr. Carman remained silent. Compelled at last by evidence in the press, to speak, he published a letter full of the spirit of partisanship, in which he merely insinuated that the matter was not closed. The very Doctor thus repels the charge that he attacked the Government."

"It is not to be seen that in Dr. Carman's opinion, he has a right to circulate slanders against public men without there or is not any ground for such slanders. How did such a man come to be a Member of the House of Commons? The Baptist Journal, published in Toronto, accepts the Premier's statement as an emphatic denial. Dr. Carman, however, says it is only a half-way denial, and again vents his spiteful feelings in his missionary sermon in this city yesterday."

The Montreal Gazette, of the 27th ult., seems to have read correctly between the lines when it says:

"Dr. Carman has written another letter to the Government, in which he has again accused the Government of paying for masses for the repose of the soul of the late Sir John Thompson. He has also published a list of names of the persons who were to receive the benefit of the masses. He has also published a list of names of the persons who were to receive the benefit of the masses."

The advice is useless, "the old Adam" is altogether too strong in him whenever he has a party sin in view.

Here is another evidence of the treachery of that truly "religious" journal, the Montreal Witness. If there is a lying correspondent in Canada he is to be found connected with the Witness staff. Nor is the staff of the editorial department any better. The best evidence of that is the number of times the Witness has published attacks upon their characters. This is a virtue we have not seen in Dr. Carman, who is difficult to say what he would do were he taken into account and asked to substantiate his statements or pay the penalties.

The Mail-Empire of the 10th inst. says:

"Ivan the Monstrous Witness that it is the duty of the Government to pay for masses for the repose of the soul of the late Sir John Thompson. He has also published a list of names of the persons who were to receive the benefit of the masses. He has also published a list of names of the persons who were to receive the benefit of the masses."

The Montreal Witness, in its issue of the 10th inst., has published a list of names of the persons who were to receive the benefit of the masses. It has also published a list of names of the persons who were to receive the benefit of the masses."

Literary Notes.

Among the latest features announced for early publication in the Intelligencer, is a book entitled "The Personal Recollections of John A. Macdonald," by the late Premier's daughter, Mrs. John A. Macdonald. The book is a most interesting and valuable contribution to the history of the late Premier's life, and will be published in the near future.

During March a series of articles, dealing with subjects that principally concern the people of Ontario, will be published in the Intelligencer. The first of these articles will be a long and interesting article on the subject of the "Transportation Commission," which will be published in the first issue of the month.

THE 28TH OF MARCH IS MENTIONED as the day when the Dominion Government will publish a list of names of the persons who were to receive the benefit of the masses.

ON TO THE SCUT POLE

COOK, THE EXPLORER TO LEAD THE EXPEDITION.

A start is to be made in September. Next—More Little is known of the Lands and Waters Within the Arctic.

"I believe that I shall be able to start about Sept. 15. If I cannot secure the necessary funds for a start, I will take a good sailing schooner with a crew of six."

That is a part of a recent letter from Dr. Frederick A. Cook, expedition, to Mr. Albert W. W. Cook, of Boston, member of the Polar expedition, and a good friend to Dr. Cook.

Mr. Cook, who corresponds regularly with Dr. Cook, was the first man selected for the Arctic expedition. He is the only one to have been selected for the Arctic expedition. To understand clearly the meaning and importance of Dr. Cook's expedition, it is necessary to know a little Arctic history. There has been nearly thirty years in the history of the Arctic, because the quest for the "North West Passage" has constantly held the attention of the world.

Early all the sea-faring nations are to the North. The first Arctic voyage was made by Pom, in 1472, with small profit. In 1570, an island, then supposed to be the Antarctic Continent, was discovered and named by Kerguelen—a Frenchman—in about the seventeenth century. The first man to cross the Antarctic Circle was the great Captain Cook, who also discovered the "North West Passage" in 1771.

John James Weddell, in 1823, sailed as far south as 74 deg. 15 min., he reported to have seen a sea elephant, and a seal, and no land. This expedition was very important, and might have gone very far south if provisions had not given out. In 1831, Bledsoe discovered the west coast of Greenland. Then came a time when Arctic knowledge was greatly augmented by Wilkes, McIlwain, and others. In 1868 or '69, with four sailing vessels—among them the "Tartar," "Thetis," and "Porpoise"—skirted along an enormous amount of territory between 100 deg. and 120 deg. longitude. This was a United States government expedition, and was named Wilkes' land.

The renowned Ross then went south and came back to report that he had seen all over Wilkes' land. He put little faith in Wilkes' story, and made the most important explorations. He was followed by three successive summers and made the Arctic Circle in 1875. The record today. He named two active volcanic mountains from his ship, "Erebus" and "Terror." In the summer of 1882, a merchant's expedition went south from Dundee, Scotland, to look for whale—Ross had reported that he saw the Greenland seal in the water there. The Dundee expedition did not see any right whales, and went home with ship full of seals. In the summer of 1891, a Norwegian expedition under Captain Lauenstein sailed along the west and east coasts of Greenland, and REPORTED A MUCH LARGER CONTINENT, than any body had supposed. Now, that is all the history there is about the remarkable fact that nobody has ever been down there during the last century. Observations have been very incomplete, we know scarcely anything about all the lands and waters of the Arctic. That lack of knowledge has been the cause of our during the past year or two, an expedition to believe that the unknown Arctic, "terra Australis incognita," is destined to be the coming field for Arctic glory.

Yorving to the North is being made by the expedition of Sir James Murray, president of the Royal Society, Geographical Society, and the British expedition in an arctic delivered in 1885.

It is interesting to know in London. Men over there seem to be far more public spirited and unselfish than men in this country. That is the opinion of Leigh Smith, for instance, who possesses a private fortune, fits out and pays for polar expeditions, and has been to the Arctic for several years. He is now in the Arctic, and again to get funds to raise funds. He is now in the Arctic, and again to get funds to raise funds.

His year has been happily made up his mind to go south.

"Now, as to Dr. Cook's plan," Mr. Vorse went on, "he will take a steamer. If he can raise more about more money and quickly, and accomplish more than with a sailing vessel, a sailing vessel is not a hopeless thing for ideas to the contrary."

The original purpose was to touch at Antwerp, and then to go to the Arctic. It is now a matter of time before the expedition is launched. It is now a matter of time before the expedition is launched.

Dangers of Delinquency.

If we were allowed to look into the future and see the result of our delinquency, we should not be so easily tempted to do it.
We should see the result of our delinquency in the eyes of the world, and we should see the result of our delinquency in the eyes of the Lord. We should see the result of our delinquency in the eyes of the world, and we should see the result of our delinquency in the eyes of the Lord.

Paine's Celery Compound Rescues
the Victim to Perfection

Health and Strength.
 'Tis the Spring Medicine
 Renews and Invigorates

Mr. Porter Taylor, well known in quodoboit, Halifax Co., N.S., suffers

Mr. Taylor, a year before his misadventure, used Paine's Celery Compound, and was thoroughly well aware of its healing powers. He immediately procured a bottle of the strength-giving medicine, and himself cured and quite strong and Every measure of this kind should be comforting and interesting to all who suffer from disease and general weakness. It is the time to put the system in better condition, and no medicine known in the medical world can so well do this as Paine's Celery Compound.

"I wish to inform you as to received from your valuable medicine, Celery Compound. I strained myself across the kidneys while lifting a piece of plaster rock. I fell to the floor like one shot down, and it was with most excruciating pain that I craved my house. I fainted twice before I reached my door. I got to bed, and there I endured untold agony for three days, and could move without the greatest pain. Knowing what was a Celery Compound had for me a year before, my wife went to a merchant, Mr. Edgar Archibald, and secured a supply. I used two bottles as strong and as well as ever before.

Why Contemplate Suicide?
It is like tempting Providence for simplives to ignore the remarkable reknown as Miller's Emulsion of North Cod Liver Oil. For any person to consumption without trying this reable flesh and blood maker, after kn of its existence, is a scientific fact. All that the consumptive patient needs is new blood with which to battle against the destructive forces of the disease. Scott's Emulsion provides new blood in abundance. It is a combination of Norwegian oil, hypophosphites of lime and soda—triumph of science. Miller's Emulsion is a great nerve strengthener and blood restorer. Cures Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, and all lung affections. In Big B.

An advertisement for 'Wall Paper'. The title 'Wall Paper' is prominently displayed in a large, serif font, with 'Wall' on the top line and 'Paper' on the bottom line. The word 'Wall' is partially obscured by a decorative flourish. The word 'Paper' is also partially obscured by a decorative flourish. Below the title, there is a decorative border consisting of a series of small, dark, oval shapes. The main text is enclosed in a decorative frame made of repeating floral or leaf-like motifs. The text reads: 'THE designs of our spring wall papers are beautiful and the colorings exquisite. The effects they produce upon the wall have been studied with intelligent sympathy and the "long-felt-wants" of a few years ago have been provided for with cultivated taste. A judicious employment of any of our papers leaves little to be done in a room. A few ornaments, according to the taste or wealth of the occupant, are all that is necessary to contribute to its beauty and comfort. Our papers thoroughly represent the standard of the prevailing taste in Interior Decorations.' The text is arranged in a justified manner within the frame.

"Fine Fashions Make Fine Birds"

Women are not all beautiful but all women are attractive who are beautifully dressed.

Beautifully undressed may do in poverty, but the nicely fitting gown is a woman's pride. A dress that is made of the best fabrics have done much to wear a character that distinguishes a woman. The "Eudora" is all the rage. It is even better than the "Helen" and "Gloria". It is a dress that is made of the finest materials, lacks to wit: greater width, greater weight, and a superior drape abounding quality. And then it has an exquisite surface which gives it an almost regal presence. Very few women can afford to wear it.

There is no reason why anyone should have a cough any length of time. All that is needed, after taking a dose of the throat or for the bronchial tubes from irritating, is to take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is a wonderful cough cure, and should be in every medicine chest.

Cholera and all summer complaints are so quick in their action that the best hand of death is upon the victim before they are aware that danger is at hand. To be safe, do not delay in getting the proper medicine. Try a dose of Dr. J. C. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and you will get immediate relief. It acts with wonderful rapidity and never fails to effect a cure.

Dangers of Delay.

If we were allowed to look into the future and see the fatal consequences that follow a neglected cold, how differently would our course be! We could realize our danger, how much more we could do to prevent it, but many of us only wait until the danger is upon us, and then we are forced to take such measures as are available to us. It is not unusual to find a person who has neglected a cold, and who has allowed it to become a chronic inflammation of the throat and lungs, and who has suffered from it for many months, and who has been unable to do his work, and who has been a great deal of trouble to his family, and who has been a great deal of trouble to himself. Wall Paper

The designs of our spring wall papers are beautiful and the colorings exquisite. The effects they produce upon the wall have been studied with intelligent sympathy and the "long-felt wants" of a few years ago have been provided for with cultivated taste. A judicious employment of any of our papers leaves little to be done in a room. A few ornaments, according to the taste or wealth of the occupant, are all that is necessary to contribute to its beauty and comfort. Our papers thoroughly represent the standard of the prevailing taste in Interior Decorations.

EASTERDAY NOVELTIES.

IT IS THE THING TO GIVE PRESENTS
AND SOUVENIRS.Eggs Decorated With Every Possible Device—The Proper Thing for a Lover to Give to His Sweetheart—Fruit Cakes Notions.Eggs! fresh eggs! Easter eggs! all kinds of eggs, from the primitive clay, dyed by boiling in a piece of colored cloth to the gold egg with a diamond clasp, my lady's boudoir.Eggs are, as usual, the feature of the Easter cake and souveniers. There are the pretty, dainty ones with flowers and ribbons, the big decorated with eggs; the queer ones, with great fanciful-looking spiders crawling over them; the amusing ones, with faces grotesque enough to haunt one's dreams; a hideous-looking old woman, a mischievous young man, painted and adorned with real hair. Then come two dainty daisies laboring under the weight of Easter greetings, painted on a large egg.The practice of sending a remembrance to friends at Easter is increasing.Never has the sale of cards been so large, in spite of the fact that gifts of all kinds are more popular than ever, and suitable books have never been in such demand—any kind of a book, from a novel to a sermon, but it must be tied with a broad ribbon, on one end of which is "Easter Greetings," in gold letters.The favorite letter this season is the "Brook's Easter sermon," the "Life Here and the Life Hereafter," in dainty velvet cover.Sachets of all kinds, boxes of note paper tied with an Easter ribbon, a book marker, a silver-mounted egg-shaped mirror, in fact, anything useful or ornamental, is considered appropriate. Pen-writers always seem to come severely to the front with the question of a trifling gift arises, as everybody is supposed to be able to find use for one. A reasonable one is an egg forming the oval of a pretty china box, laid, framed by the oval, and a trimmed with pink roses, from under which come curls of golden hair. Athese are elaborately trimmed with flowers and ribbon. A particularly striking one has a handle made of twisted green branches tied with a bow of violet ribbon. The body of the basket is decorated by two pairs of doves wings. Apparently filling the basket are bunches of chrysanthemums, which nearly conceal the silk tag designed to hold the bonbons.A watch fob with a small white enamel egg covered with forget-me-nots in color is one of the season's novelties.
One, however, put into the line, into dainty egg-shaped boxes of white silk lined with white satin.What shall a girl give to her sweetheart? That is the question. So she must draw upon her imagination and produce something new.Flowers seem to blossom in richer profusion this year than ever before.The advantage of sending potted plants which are in flower, is that the gift time is at last fully recognized, and the pink, red, and white sweet-smelling plants are first favored. The silver-plated flower pots to cover up the unsightly roots. They come in various designs, but unfortunately only in small sizes.The confectioners make as much preparation for the Easter cake as the of the Christmas holidays, so the children are not forgotten. Candy boxes come in every shape imaginable, from a demure-looking man filled with chocolate to a plump goose full of gumdrops.
A white cone encircled with violets to a bright red and yellow tulip.There are eggs of chocolate, of chocolate eggs and sugar eggs, to be eaten.Fancy baskets are also used in which to store store the bonbons. Most of these are elaborately trimmed with
green branches tied with a bow of
nearly conceal the silk tag designed to hold the bonbons.Sachets of all kinds, boxes of note paper tied with an Easter ribbon, a
or ornamental, is considered ap-
forming the oval of a pretty china box,
which come curls of golden hair. Athese are elaborately trimmed with

DIPHTHERIA ANTI-TOXINE.

How the New Remedy for this Disease Was Discovered.A number of series of experimental observations regarding the nature and causation of diphtheria, previously the discovery of the new remedy. These were carried out by the diphtheria bacteria by Klebs in 1882. In the following year, 1883, the organisms described by Klebs were more carefully studied by Loewer, who more carefully studied the living body, and diphtheria, a disease resembling it, was reproduced in animals by inoculating them with the cultures of this germ. Loewer was unable, however, to reproduce the various forms of paralysis which frequently follow diphtheria, but Roux and Yersin in Paris, in 1888, succeeded in reproducing artificially, by the inoculation of diphtheria bacilli, the diphtheria bacteria, a perfectly characteristic diph-theritic paralysis, and they were successful in separating from the cultures of the diphtheria organism a poison (the diphtheria toxin) with which they produced paralysis in animals. Then heart?" Something worthy he wants, something which costs a goodly sum.

The really proper thing is a white kid or velvet prayer book with single gold verses, and big monogram in gold in the center. To this may be added a cher, and cross encased in dark blue gold marker containing of a heart, an another offering of love is a bonbon-niere made of a blood-red velvet cover of an egg and overlaid with gold.
Through the center is a band of white enamel, on which are the words "C'est d'Amour."The first important results of these experiments were published in the early part of last year, and they showed a striking diminution in the mortality in a series of cases of diphtheria treated with the anti-toxin. The results obtained in these first cases have been more and more confirmed by subsequent experiments. The treatment of this dis-

TO PRESERVE BUTTER.

DIFFERENT METHODS THAT HAVE BEEN ADAPTED.A Process by Which Butter Can Be Kept Absolutely Pure for a Month—A Crystalline Substance Is the Best Known Preservative.No luxury of the table comes nearer to being an absolute necessity than butter. The reason why it is so necessary is that it is the most important poor, and the means for keeping it in good condition, are of general public interest. We translate the following article, which treats these points from the standpoint of scientific research, from La Nature.Butter, on exposure for some time to the open air, becomes rancid. Rancid butter is acid and has a disagreeable color, due to the oxidation of the glycerides and volatile acids. The ran-cidity of butter is due to several causes: 1st, the action of the oxygen of the air, in the presence of light, which oxidizes the fat; 2nd, the action of the microscopic organisms (microbes and cryptogams) which are present in the butter, just as the oxygen and light do.
Under the influence of these factors, the butter can undergo lactic or butyricfermentation, especially when it contains much of the casein of the milk.
Fig. 1 shows the method of preserving butter in a vacuum, and the microscopic organisms that determine the different alterations of butter.
Different methods have been proposed for the preservation of butter. The most in use consists in salting the butter with four to eight per cent, by weight, of white salt, and finally putting it in a metal vessel so as to leave no empty space, covering it with a layer of oil, and sealing with a sheet of paraffin.
In Scotland and in England a mixture of one part of salt, one of saltpetre, and one of sugar is used for salting. This mixture, which was advised by Anderson in 1760, is used in the proportion of six parts of salt, by weight.
It gives a very sweet flavor.Brain packs the butter in tin boxes with a mixture of sodium chloride, tar-taric acid and bicarbonate of soda. The box is then soldered. It is easy to see that in this method preservingagent is carbonic acid, which is produced by the action of the micro-bacteria uniformly. This method has suggested others founded on the same principles. One of these is to add to the butter a mixture of sodium chloride, bicarbonate of ammonia and acid phosphate of ammonia. 3. Bicarbonate of soda and phosphoric acid. 4. Bi-carbonate of ammonia and phosphoric acid. 5. Bicarbonate of soda or of ammonia and acid phosphate of ammonia.The preservation of butter may be made certain by using antiseptics such as salicylic acid, boric acid, boroglyc-eric acid, formic acid, formaldehyde, or acetic acid. Unfortunately all these disturb the natural flavor of the butter.
Other methods seek to prevent the action of the air and micro-organisms by the use of a vacuum, or carbonic acid under pressure, or wrapping in an im-permeable antiseptic paper, or of electric wrapping (the galvanoplastic deposit of metal on the surface of the butter). Unfortunately all these disturb the natural flavor of the butter.

Other methods seek to prevent the action of the air and micro-organisms byWe have studied this problem for nearly five years. After many investigations we believe that we had found the wished for solution in the use of carbonic acid under pressure, for which we took out a patent in 1885. Unfortunately, the working was not practicable, because the carbonic acid was too low (about 28° Fahr.) in an atmosphere of carbonic acid if possible. Such a high pressure is not at the service of the butter industry to assure the preservation of its product.We have studied this problem for
